SIXTY-NINTH YEAR • • • NUMBER 29
THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1946

PRICE: FIVE CENTS

Truman
The second phase of our post-war period is now well under way.
First came the Truman administration program whereby high purchasing power was to be maintained by a substantial increase in workers' wages.
It had been the thesis of left-wingers, as illustrated by views of the Michigan CIO, that the nation could not attain full employment and full production unless the wages of labor were raised to offset an 80 billion dollar decline in war orders.
August Scholle, president of Michigan CIO council, declared in a talk at Michigan State College that wages must be increased or another depression was inevitable. Furthermore, he declared that any increase in wages must come out of the profits and not be added to prices.
If prices were increased, said Scholle, then purchasing power would remain the same or go down instead of up. Yes, the employer must absorb any extra labor cost from his profits, according to Scholle. If he did not do so, the responsibility of another depression was his.
Thus the CIO neatly sidesteps the issue of economics.
That wages could not be raised without prices being raised was the inevitable and logical fact, recognized by the OPA when it granted TWO price increases to Michigan automobile manufacturers.
Now comes the unexpected end of the OPA, at least temporarily so.
Prices are going up, just as wages have gone up. There is no possible alternative. Instead of purchasing power being increased, the result will be the opposite—a decline in purchasing power.
A recent statistical study, based on government figures, shows that the automobile worker's average salary of $2,748 in 1945 was actually worth only $2,011 on a basis of 1939 prices. If prices go up 10 percent in 1946—as this is certain according to present indications—then the worker's purchasing power will be further deflated to $1,977—only some $360 more than he received in 1939!
Post-war inflation is bound to aggravate labor unrest.
That means more strikes are ahead, UNLESS production of goods can be vastly increased and the spiraling of prices can be checked.—Wages and salary income in 1940 were at a 50 billion dollar rate; today, 102 billion dollars. "Easy money" reckless spending prevails. Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of directors, Chase National Bank, recently warned: "The stage is set for ultimate deflation and depression. We are living in an ILLUSION of prosperity and wealth."
NOW is a time for SAVING, not spending.
As inflation continues—and such appears to be ahead for 1946—then the left wingers, as represented by CIO, will turn to another position.
Walter Reuther has alluded to it only indirectly.
It is simply this: Only through nationalization of industry can full employment be attained!—What they really mean to say is:
Only by nationalization of industry can the profits of the employer be converted into higher wages for labor—the dream of socialists for many centuries, the ultimate of Utopia itself. England is turning to nationalization simply because it has exhausted its resources and is at the end of its financial rope. The owners thus would cease to exist. A workers' republic would take over control, and private enterprise would be supplanted by state socialism.
This is the ultimate showdown—the third post-war phase.
We can not help but wonder if the left-wingers, as represented by CIO, have read their American history. The United States has been a workers' government since 1776. Rail splitters have become presidents, privates have become generals, gobs have become admirals, shoemakers have become senators, and newsboys have become governors.
It was the farmer, butcher, baker and candlestick maker, the gunsmith, pewterer, and button-maker who told Hamilton, Adams and Jay to get the Constitution adopted and how to make it work.
Under the free enterprise system the price of an electric bulb has been decreased from $1.50 to 10 cents. The automobile has been

ENDLESS ARGUMENTS RAGE World Awaits Second Test of Atomic Bomb

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Correspondent

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN OPERATIONS CROSSROADS.
Second or Baker test of the atomic bomb in Bikini lagoon now tentatively set for July 25, will be like dynamiting fish in a pond.
Lacking will be the glamour of the army air force and precision bombing as the whole thing will be a navy show. The bomb will be submerged some 75 feet beneath the surface in about 30 fathoms of water, 180 feet, and detonated in the midst of the target fleet, which is being regrouped to meet new conditions of the test.
This second test also will lack the drama of the bomb burst and the atomic cloud, which is characteristic of atomic bombs exploded in air. What is likely to happen is that the intense heat will generate steam in the water and the terrific force will expend a part of its energy in a waterpout with a cloud of steam and vapor shooting into the air. Intent of this test is to measure force of atomic energy upon the hull structure of naval ships spaced at various distances from the center of the explosion.
Subs to Submerge.
There will not be the visible damage which was inflicted wholly upon the topsides or superstructures as in the first blast. Since there is to be no ship placed directly above the point of blast, the prediction is being made freely that no capital ships will be sunk, although lighter craft may be capsized. Another feature of the second blast is the placing of submerged submarines in the target fleet—and it will be interesting to note the effect of the bomb force upon the steel hulls of these vessels beneath the water.
Naval scientists predict that force of the underwater blast will create waves of sufficient height, possibly 10 or more feet which will sweep over low-lying Bikini Island, although this was also forecast in the first blast and did not materialize.
Meantime, endless arguments proceed as to the degree of damage to the ships, the location of the bomb burst, whether the drop from the plane was a "near miss," probable loss of life had the ships been manned with full complement, and comparative efficiency of this first Bikini bomb as compared to the bombs at Alamogordo, Hiroshima and Nagasaki.
Precision Bombing.
When it is considered that this bomb was dropped from a height of something like six miles and hit within a 1,000-yard circle, this reporter would frankly that pretty good precision bombing.
Adm. T. A. S. Bolger of the bureau of ships, however, declared that insofar as he could judge, every ship damaged by the bomb, with the exception of the Independence, could be put into fighting shape within two or three months.
For the Independence, battered and ripped apart by explosions of her own torpedoes, her ammunition and aviation gasoline and burning for almost two days, it would take

Summary Of School Nurse's Program

A summary prepared by Mrs. Helen Corwin, school nurse, for the past school year revealed that she had made 459 calls to pupils' homes and had received 1,432 calls at her office in the school.
Over 130 pupils were excluded from school because of infectious diseases during the school year. The most frequent cause was sore throat, which though not a serious infection in itself is sometimes a forerunner of more serious diseases. Sixty-four students were excluded in that category. Whooping cough and pertussis were the next serious, with 14 and 13 students excluded, respectively. Nine were excluded for impetigo and mumps, and 7 each for scabies and swollen glands.
The nurse took 22 students home because of illness during the year, and referred 120 to their family doctor. Doctor L. K. Peck examined 100 children during the school year just ended and immunized 38, vaccinated 51, gave booster doses to 15, gave Schick tests to 6, gave tuberculosis test to 226. Doctor Mark Osterlin, pediatrician from Munson Hospital, Traverse City, examined 14.
Children from kindergarten through sixth grade were examined daily and weighed every week. They were given two vision tests during the year and prescriptions were given to 35. Of this number 31 had vision corrections made. Two children underwent surgery at Munson Hospital at Traverse City for strabismus.
Doctor Peck also performed 9 physical examinations for high school boys in the athletic program. Seven boys were sent to the hospital for examinations.
Mrs. Corwin also reported 13 patch tests for tuberculosis were given by her in addition to the 226 tests by Dr. Peck. She reports that all tests given were negative in reaction.

Trout Angling UP THIS YEAR

With the 1946 trout season only half over there already has been more fishing on the experimental waters of Hunt Creek than during the entire 1945 season, David S. Shetter of the Conservation Department's Hunt Creek fisheries experiment station, reports.
In 1945, 637 hours of fishing were recorded; up to the end of June this year 679 hours were spent on the experimental sections. Anglers have taken 226 seven-inch fish, two-thirds as many as last season's total.
Heaviest fishing has been done in those waters where a Conservation Commission order permits keeping six- to seven-inch trout, and fishermen have been keeping two short fish for each 7-inch trout taken.
Angling on East Fish lake has been at the rate of 1,000 hours a season, the same as a year ago. The catch, at 49 fish, is behind last year's, but mild weather and a heavy May-June hatch may change that shortly. This lake got a new size record last month when it yielded a 20 1/2-inch brook trout weighing 3 pounds, 1 ounce.
Average size of stream fish remains as in earlier years, at 7.6 inches and 2.5 ounces. In East Fish lake the average size this season is 11.9 inches and 13.5 ounces, the same as in 1945.

GRAYLING SCOUTS ATTEND CAMP

Last Sunday 15 wiser and happier Grayling Boy Scouts returned from a week at the Woodland Trails District Boy Scout Camp on Crooked Lake west of Clare. The boys were part of a group of 65 Scouts who spent a busy week in the adventures of Larry Walker Scout lore in which several passed the tests to advance a rank in Scouting.
Some of the tests passed were first aid, signaling, compass, knife and hatchet, puzzle, rules of safety and swimming. Awards received included yeoman pins in archery, the white shark, sun, explorer, arrow, and brown kettle belt awarded for camp approval and clean camp emblem and camp leader.
A well supervised water front program gave every boy a chance to advance to the third level of swimming and become prepared to pass advanced life saving tests. Campfire programs were highlighted by a Saturday carnival in which the boys made up their own shows.
Extra money was deposited in the Canteen and they were allowed to draw on their fund once a day.
There was plenty of meat and some boys in the previous camp period gained as much as six pounds in weight.
The Grayling group made up the Indian Village camp for boys who have had some experience. Next year they hope to make the Explorer camp for more highly seasoned campers.
The boys were: Henry Feldhauser, Jim Case, Larry Walker, Lee Nolan, George Granger, Terry Hinton, Victor Papendick, Dick and Jerry Barber, John Goss, George Kessler, Calvin Schrieber, Melvin Marshall, Billy Worden and Jim Darvich.
Transportation down and back was furnished by the Kiwanis Club, sponsor of the Troop. Drivers included Jerome Kessler (both trips), George Granger, Emil Giegling, Eugene Lawler and Frank Bond.

LOCALS LOSE TO LEWISTON NINE

The local ball club is scheduled to face Mio at the City Park Field this Sunday, after dropping a hot contest at Lewiston last Sunday.
The Lewiston hurler, Winters, was really hot and kept the Grayling batters handcuffed until the ninth inning, when they pounced on him for 5 runs—just one short of tying up the game. Lewiston had scored 8 runs on 7 hits and 3 Grayling errors. The local club also collected 7 safeties, but Lewiston played airtight ball in the field.
Gildner hurled for Grayling and was backstopped by Ross Thompson. Pinnonen completed the Lewiston battery.
Following are the league standings, results of Sunday's games, and games scheduled for next Sunday.

July Is High Month For Drownings

July is the peak month for drownings in Michigan, according to a report by the State Department of Health. Of the 241 deaths by drowning reported in the state last year, 75 occurred in July. The vacation months of June, July and August account for two-thirds of all drownings.
Eighty-six percent of the drownings occur among males. Of 1407 persons drowned in Michigan during the past five years, 1209 were males.
Among males the largest number of drownings (30 percent of the total) occurred in the 10-19 age group. Among females the peak age was 5 to 14 years.

The Only Cure...

It is an established fact that black markets are created by an inadequate supply of desired goods in normal and legitimate markets. The price control policies coupled with War Labor Board's wage fixing policies have caused, aided and abetted these shortages. It is an undeniable fact that no one will produce an article at a loss. No manufacturer, farmer or retailer can "hold the line" indefinitely in the face of rising labor costs and operating expenses. He must raise his price or strangle in a swamp of red ink.

A child can see through the fallacy of government subsidies which were attempted on agricultural products. The only difference in the cost of an article under the subsidy plan is that you pay part now and the rest later in taxes. The cost of an article is thus hidden. The bill always is greater under this system, as YOU not only must pay the subsidy but a large group of political office holders' wages as well.

Those who have attempted to bring about a businesslike administration of price control aren't the friends of inflation. They are the friends of production, which in turn is inflation's and the black market's arch enemy. This land of ours has the greatest potential production in the world, and, coupled with our highly competitive distributive system—which is a miracle of efficiency—we can easily overthrow the forces of the black market and keep prices in line.

Until these two forces can operate freely without the hindrances of price control and strikes, we shall continue to enrich the black market and hinder legitimate producers and distributors in all fields from performing the huge amount of service of which they are capable—and which would assure goods at the least inflated prices.

This New Engine Clean-up Program may be the one thing that will put power in the last long drive

It's done a wonderful job of serving you—that old car. And now, with new ones in the offing, it's nearing the close of its long assignment.

But this last stretch may be toughest of all. If there's a lot of dirt in the engine—and that's likely—sticky deposits may suddenly clog the oiling system—with disastrous results.

To meet the situation, your Standard Oil Dealer offers a new, economical, five-point Engine Clean-up Program. It includes the use of two remarkable new Standard Oil Products—Stano-Purge and Stano-Vim—which do an effective cleaning job without requiring expensive dismantling of the engine.

New, economical, 5 point Engine Clean-up Program

- 1 Stano-Purge—Purges crankcase and engine. Cleans oil screen. Removes deposits tending to clog oil lines and channels.
- 2 Stano-Vim—Introduced through carburetor air intake. It cleans out deposits in valve area. Restores pep, power, smooth engine operation.
- 3 Oil Change—Oil Filter Replacement. Fresh oil always helps keep an engine clean. A clean filter keeps the oil clean.
- 4 Radiator Flushing—Old engines need efficient cooling.
- 5 Fan Belt Check-up—A worn belt is an unwise risk.

James McDonnell has sold his creamery, known as the Grayling Dairy Products market, to Henry W. Klein of this city.

Twenty Years Ago—I Remember—Eggs were ten cents a dozen, milk was five cents a quart, the butcher gave liver away, the hired girl received a dollar a week and did the washin'. Women did not powder and paint (in public), play poker or shake the shimie, and they were taught to cook at the age of three. Men wore whiskers and boots; shewed tobacco; spit on the sidewalks and cussed. Laborers worked 10 hours a day and never went on strike. No tips were given to waiters and the hat-check-grafter was unknown. No one was ever operated on for appendicitis; microbes were unheard of; folks lived to a good old age and every year walked miles to wish their friends a Merry Christmas. Today—you know, everyone rides in automobiles (or Fords), plays the piano with his feet, goes to see Charlie Chaplin, smokes cigarettes, drinks hair tonic, blames the H. C. L. on the Democrats, never goes to bed the same day he gets up; and thinks he's having a heck of a time. These are the days of Suffragettes, Profiteering, Prohibition; and life is worth living.

Miss Gladys Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Clark of this city, was united in marriage to Emory Craft of Rose City Saturday evening. The wedding took place in Rose City at the home of the groom's parents. Miss Della Beck of Grayling acted as bridesmaid and John Craft, brother of the groom, as best man. Only the immediate family witnessed the ceremony. The couple will make their home with the bride's parents for the present. Mr. Craft is employed at the Planing Mill in this city.

Mrs. Joseph McLeod is assisting at the Hans Peterson grocery this week during the absence of Miss Lola Klingensmith, who is visiting in friends in Indiana.

Russell Peterson underwent an operation at Mercy Hospital last week. He had a fulminating cap of a hand grenade removed from his hand.

Peter Jensen left Wednesday for Kenosha, Wis., where he will make his home. Mr. Jensen has been a resident of Grayling for thirty-two years and has many friends here.

R. S. Babbitt and a crew of men have been erecting a number of observation towers throughout the county the past week. The towers are for the use of fire wardens in observing fires.

R. N. Martin has purchased the home of Ernest Larson on Maple Street and is moving in this week. Mr. and Mrs. Larson are moving into the Ed Sorenson house on Ionia Street for the time being. Mr. Martin sold his home on Maple Street to his brother, Louis Martin.

Benny Jorgenson, who has been in the service of the U. S. Army the past three years, arrived home Monday morning and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rasmus Jorgenson and friends. He came from Maria, Texas, where he has been lately stationed. He is a member of the U. S. Cavalry.

Word has been received from the War Department by Second Lieutenant Russell E. Bates of the Coast Artillery Corps to report for assignment to duty at Fort Monroe, Virginia.

Roy Babbitt knows when and how to catch big trout. He showed us eight fine brookies one day recently, not one of which was under 12 inches long. He goes fishing at sundown and never fails to bring home a nice catch. He generally has a pattern of fly for the hatches out over the river at that time of day.

Sultry weather and plenty of it lately; but you'll generally find it worth while to get out on the trout streams in early morning or in the evening, when the trout are really feeding.

Tried K. P. Lake the other week with Gawge Weidner and Tom Meredith, our sons-in-law, from Ohio and Indiana respectively. Tom vows you can't get any fish in that lake; Gawge and us each got a bass—Tom drew a blank, missing on the only strike he had. Maybe the weather had something to do with the poor fishing; it was really hot the week-end of July 4th. We feel rather sheepish—told the boys the fishing up this way is really good, and then failed to show 'em. But we do maintain that, weather conditions right, there is no better fishing than in Crawford County streams and lakes. The same morning the folks left for home caught five nice brookies in the East Branch—but Tom and Gawge were not here to see them!

CHAPTER V

He agreed and they sat down on the grass again. Like herself he had no immediate family, he told her.
His parents had died long ago, and he had worked his way through the University of what he could still call nothing else but Chicago. After a few moments' conversation they found that Elizabeth's uncle, who was also in the oil business, knew several members of the company where Arthur was employed, so they justified their acquaintance by that.
They went dancing that night, and as the next day was Sunday they went swimming again. A week later Elizabeth was refusing to undertake the projected trip to Canada. A month later she was refusing to go back to college. In September they were married.

There was no use in anybody's saying eighteen was too young to be married, she hadn't known him long enough, she would never have another chance to go to college, Arthur couldn't support her in the style to which she was accustomed, or giving any of the other sensible advice older people like to give young girls in love. She and Arthur wanted each other, and nobody could keep them apart. Elizabeth found there was still some of her father's property left, so with what had been intended for the rest of her expensive schooling they furnished their home. That it was a very modest little place troubled them not at all. It was a place of peace and ecstasy. Elizabeth was tremulous with joy at finding out what it was like to be loved.
She had always had plenty of friends, her masculine acquaintance ancestors had let her know she was desirable, and her aunt and uncle had done their dutiful best to be affectionate, but nobody had ever loved her. Arthur loved her.

She was not very good at expressing it. But in the evenings while he read, or worked on the pamphlets he wrote describing his researches for the benefit of other oil chemists, she would sit with the mending and look up to watch the line of light down his profile, and every now and then Arthur would glance up, and smile at her and she would be unutterably happy. Sometimes when they went out together and did something quite ordinary like seeing a movie or playing tennis, she would say, "I never knew any two people could have as much fun together as we do," and he would grin at her and answer,
"It's a good thing, isn't it?"
That was all they really needed to say to each other about it. But Arthur had more talent for words than she had, and now and then he would make it articulate.

One night when she was nearly asleep he turned over and said, "Elizabeth, if you're still awake, I was just thinking about you, and I get such a thrill every time I see you, and I remembered an old myth I read in the university library one day."

"Tell me," said Elizabeth. She moved closer to him and he slipped his arm around her as he went on.
"I don't know who thought it up, the Persians or Greeks or somebody.
They said that in the beginning everybody in the world was happy.
Then they sinned, and to punish them the gods decreed that every soul should be split in half. Since then each of us is born incomplete, and has to wander over the earth looking for the other half of himself, and nobody can be happy unless he finds it. But if you're very lucky you find it, and unite with the one who's really the other half of you, and then you're right with the universe because you're complete."

She drew a long joyful breath.
"Arthur, how beautiful! And how right—I think I felt like that the first time I saw you."

"So did I. You came down off the diving board and I pulled you out of the water, and you were there, it was right. Funny to think back now—there was so much I wanted to do, so much I wanted to learn, about oils and plants and people and stars—I still want to do everything like that as much as ever, but it's so different now. You've no idea how different it is."

"Yes I have. Everything is different now that we're together. I do love you so!" she said.

Arthur kissed her shoulder in the dark.

They both wanted to have children. Elizabeth loved babies. Ever since she was a little girl playing with her dolls she had looked forward to the time when she could have a real baby of her own. They talked about it eagerly. But Arthur, who had a deep sense of protection, thought they should wait a year or two. Elizabeth was so young. Besides, they had been married in the fall of 1916, and by spring it was evident that the United States was about to enter the war. "Suppose I should be called into the army," he said, "and have to leave you here alone."

Elizabeth shivered. Now that she had found Arthur, the idea of living without him was more than she could bear to contemplate. "The war won't last much longer," she said. "I'm sure it won't. We don't have to have children right now—we've got years and years before us, but you do want them, don't you?"

Arthur grinned at her with tender eagerness. "You're mighty right I do."

Then the United States was in the war, and there was no keeping Arthur back from it. Arthur loved people. The people of France and Belgium and Great Britain, cloudy masses to Elizabeth because she had never seen them except on one or two schoolgirl tours of Europe, were as real to Arthur as the people of Tulsa, though he had never been to Europe at all. While she had been seeing the war in terms of newspaper accounts he was seeing it as human beings starving and bleeding before a force of evil that decent men must stop. Arthur had registered for the draft, though he had been deferred because he was married; but he wanted to go. Terrified, Elizabeth pled with him.

"Arthur, have mercy on me! Suppose I wanted to go out to France or Flanders—don't you understand?"

He doubled up his fists. "Yes, I understand."

"Have you thought about it? I mean thought about it?"

"A lot of times. While you were asleep. I'd look at you in the dark.
You looked so trusting."

"Arthur, you're not going. It's different with some men. I suppose I mean it's different with some women. They've got somebody besides their husbands. Please understand.
My father was a bank-and-my-mother was a hell. The bank sent the checks and the hell rang to tell me what to do. I'm not trying to say I was unhappy—I wasn't, because I didn't know any better. But then, all of a sudden, you."

Arthur said, "Do you have to make it so damnably hard to do?"

"You don't want to go, do you, Arthur?"

"No, I don't. But my darling, we've got to win this war or lose it.
If we lose it, God help us. Don't you see it? We're fighting so other people will have the same chance at life that we've had—not only the former of their relatives had thrust on them as wedding presents. If she looked out of a front window she could most see Arthur coming down the street from his office and raising his head to see if he could catch sight of her anywhere and wave at her before he came into the house. Arthur was everywhere, so vividly that there were even moments when she forgot he would not be there anymore. She would wake up in the night and begin to turn over softly —was not to disturb him—wondering if the library door was closed, she would find herself tiptoeing past it, lest the sound of her approach interrupt the work he had brought home to do. When this happened she would bring herself up with a start that reminded her, "But he isn't there, he'll never be there again."

The pain would slash into her, deep and quick, until she thought, "This is worse than it was at first. And there'll never be anything else. Arthur is dead."

She did not make any display of her grief. This was partly because she had an inborn dread of public weeping, but mainly because it did not occur to her to do so. What she and Arthur had shared had been too profound for them ever to talk about it except to each other. Now it would have seemed sacrilegious and obscene to try to tell anybody else what he had meant to her. Arthur had been her husband; no matter how much his friends had valued him, he did not stand in that relationship to anyone but herself, and only she could feel the severing of that tie. So she bore what she had to bear alone and in silence.

It was a matter of embarrassing astonishment to her Aunt Grace.
Aunt Grace was very fond of Uncle Clarence, and would have been deeply distressed to lose him, so when Elizabeth said nothing, never about Arthur, Aunt Grace was reluctantly forced to the conclusion that Elizabeth had no soul. To Aunt Grace one's soul meant the sum of one's emotions, and to her an emotion was synonymous with its expression. When she was happy she laughed, when she was unhappy she cried, she liked you to know what you and if she was angry with you she lost her temper. Regarding these manifestations as identical with the states of mind that inspired them, when she observed that Elizabeth expressed nothing she concluded that Elizabeth felt nothing, and therefore had no soul.

Elizabeth took no interest in her aunt's reactions, nor, for that matter, in anything else. Her friends were being very kind to her. They urged her to go out with them, saying it would do her good. She tried going out, but it did her no good whatever. For they did the same things in the same places as when Arthur had been among them; whether they played in the snow or had dinner at a favorite restaurant or sat around someone's fire and talked, every gathering reminded her of him. She would come home and sit down wearily, sorry she had gone. It was easier standing at home, where at least she did not have to put up any ghastly pretense of being cheerful.

And then one morning, in the spring after the Armistice, she discovered that she did not have much money left to live on.

It gave her a start, not because she had thought she was rich but because in the past few months she had not thought about it at all. She had been spending very little, mechanically writing checks for such necessities as food and rent since it was part of the inescapable routine. When a phone call from Uncle Clarence—who had again consulted himself her guardian, as he saw she was in no state to attend to her affairs herself—advised her that she should meet him at the bank the next morning, she obeyed his summons, mildly wondering what it was about. Uncle Clarence and the bank vice president told her it was to make arrangements for her pension as a soldier's widow.

Elizabeth was unutterably happy.

elgers, but Americans, the Americans who aren't born yet. We've been thinking, here in our favored corner of the world, that we were safe. Now we've found that we're not. Not even this country is safe unless we're willing to fight the brutes of the world so we can keep it so."

Her mind yielded, for he was incontestably right. But she could not help protesting still.

"What about those children I was going to have?"

"If we win this war," said Arthur, "you'll have your children. If we don't," he added grimly, "you won't want them."

So, after not quite a year of marriage, Arthur joined the army. From the day they were married until the day he left, he and Elizabeth had not been separated for as long as twenty-four hours. The first night she slept alone the bed seemed twice its usual size and the room seemed enormous.

Crumpled up on that same bed, Elizabeth was telling herself the room would always be empty. She had nothing. No husband, no children, no desire for anything else without them. She was alive, and that was strange, she thought dully as the hours of that dreadful night dragged by, strange that when two persons had interlaced their lives into such a unit as theirs, half of that unit could be torn away and leave the other half still breathing, alive for no purpose but to feel the anguish of the separation.

Feldmann, a prominent businessman, operating the Feldmann Glove and Hosiery Shop. He passed away as the result of a surgical operation. Mr. Feldmann was a summer resident on the AuSable River, owning a cabin at Shaw's Park. He was well known here and his passing leaves many bereaved friends in Grayling.

Mr and Mrs Robert Jacobson of Sidney, Ohio, en route home from a fishing trip to Canada, called on Mr and Mrs Roy B. Conkling Sr. last Thursday evening. Bob, an old fishing pal of R. ## LOCALS

Mr and Mrs Holpeter of Fort Wayne, Indiana, have been the guests of Mrs Clarence Lemer.

Stanley Matson of Flint was here to visit his mother, Mrs Elmer Matson, and his family, who had been spending a week with her, returned home with him.

The John Libcke family, who are again making their home in Detroit, plan to spend the week end in Grayling and Gaylord.

The Edwin La Butts are excavating for a basement on their land at Lake Margrethe, and plan to build.

Local anglers sort of raised their eyebrows Tuesday morning when they saw a wartime amphibious (landing) craft parked by the NYC depot. "Was Ships Edwards or Vern Oliver trying to get something over in the way of a new fishing craft?" Neither of the two gentlemen was around—so the question was unanswered until a couple boys in uniform climbed aboard the craft, started the motor and headed for US-27, turned south, and kept going. But some Oldtimers who gave the craft the o. o., say it is the answer to a lake fisherman's dream—an end to lugging a boat to and from the water, also an end to use of car top or trailer for getting the boat to a lake; only, as another wise one said, "It'd take too darn much gas."

Mrs Earl Dawson entertained at a luncheon Tuesday at her home on Ogema St. Mrs Andrew Larson of Caro, Mrs Cass Chamberland of Oxford, Mrs Richard Woodburn of Ferndale, Mrs Thomas Richard and Mrs John Olsen of Ann Arbor, Mrs William Pobur and Mrs Jack Keene of Detroit—were out of town guests. Mrs Jesse Sales and Mrs Chris Johnson were present from Grayling.

Mr and Mrs William Pobur of Detroit are spending two weeks at their cottage at Lake Margrethe. With them are Mr and Mrs Cass Chamberland and daughter Sue of Oxford, Michigan. Mr and Mrs Jack Keene of Detroit were their guests for a couple of days. Mrs Pobur and Mrs Chamberland are sisters of Mrs Earl Dawson. Another sister and husband, Mr and Mrs Andrew Larson of Caro, are spending the week visiting at the Earl Dawson home.

Clifford Oates set what might be a record for a trip to Detroit and back, this week. He left at 4 a.m. in a car with a friend, arrived in Detroit, finished his business, boarded a bus—and was back in Grayling by 4 p.m.

Mr and Mrs William Wythe of Holly have a new baby daughter, born July 6. Her name is Earledeen Sue. The Wythes are former residents of Grayling.

Mrs William Foley Jr. was released from Mercy Hospital on Monday.

Guest for two weeks of the Thomas Rickards, who are spending the summer at Lake Margrethe, are Mr and Mrs Richard Woodburn of Ferndale, Michigan.

Mr and Mrs De Vere Bonware have purchased the Barkley house on Michigan Avenue. The Barkleys plan to live in Maple Forest.

Mrs De Vere Bonware was hostess at a birthday party at her home on Vilas Street Monday, in honor of her little daughter, Peggy Jean's 6th birthday. Joan and Mary Ann Cinciala, Susan Wiggins and Marilyn Wakeley were present to enjoy the pink and white birthday cake with Peggy Jean.

There will be a Ladies' National League card party July 20, at the Grange Hall. Public invited.

Mrs Warren Stephan, who is employed in Detroit, is enjoying a vacation here.

Mrs Lipman Landsberg of Detroit spent from Sunday till Wednesday as the guest of the Harold Rasmussen family. She accompanied Mr and Mrs Ben Landsberg, who were en route to Mackinaw City.
